So join the rest of the country. Say yes. Give America a raise."		H.R. 2429 (109 th Congress), the Fair Minimum Wage Act of 2005, raised the federal minimum wage from $5.15 to $7.25 per hour over a three-year period. CBO reported: "The increases in the minimum wage on the order of magnitude suggested in your letter could affect federal spending, but the [CBO] judges that those effects would be small. Moreover, whether those impacts would be an increase or decrease in spending is uncertain because the result would depend on the income and family characteristics of the affected individuals." http://www.cbo.gov/sites/default/files/cbofiles/ftpdocs

22	" I agree that [the Earned Income Tax Credit] doesn't do enough for single workers who don't have kids. So let's work together to strengthen the credit, reward work, and help more Americans get ahead."	$0.414	In the MSR , the Administration proposed to simplify the rules for claiming the Earned Income Tax Credit for workers without qualifying children. This would increase outlays by $2.071 billion over five years, owing to "refunable" payments. http://www.whitehouse.gov/sites/default/files/omb/budget/fy2014/assets/14msr.pdf

24	"Offer every American access to an automatic IRA on the job"	$0.152	The MSR contains a proposal to provide for automatic enrollment in Individual Retirement Accounts, including a small employer tax credit, and double the tax credit for small employer plan start-up costs. In addition to a revenue effect, it would increase outlays by $762 million over five years.
25	"[S]end me legislation that protects taxpayers from footing the bill for a housing crisis ever again, and keeps the dream of homeownership alive for future generations of Americans."	($0.103)	CBO cost estimate for S. 1376 (113 th Congress), the FHA Solvency Act. The proposal would require the Federal Housing Administration to increase its capital reserve ratio to cover potential losses over the next ten years. CBO's estimate assumes the FHA would be required to charge additional mortgage insurance premium fees beginning in 2018. These are recorded in the budget as offsetting receipts. http://www.cbo.gov/sites/default/files/cbofiles/attach ments/s1376 0.pdf

27	"Here at home, we'll keep strengthening our defenses, and combat new threats like cyberattacks."	Unknown.	Several bills are currently under consideration in both Chambers, but it is unclear whether the President supports these specific proposals. CBO scored two related measures: H.R. 756, the Cybersecurity Enhancement Act of 2013, would authorize $101 million in annual spending to enhance existing computer and network security, manage digitized personal information, and establish a task force to recommend research and development activities to Congress. S. 1353, the Cybersecurity Act of 2013, would seek to improve public-private cooperation on cybersecurity at a cost of $11 million each year. http://www.cbo.gov/sites/default/files/cbofiles/attach ments/hr756.pdf http://www.cbo.gov/sites/default/files/cbofiles/attach ments/s1353.pdf

28	"That's why, working with this Congress, I will reform our surveillance programs – because the vital work of our intelligence community depends on public confidence, here and abroad, that the privacy of ordinary people is not being violated. "	Unknown.	In the 109 th Congress, CBO analyzed a related bill, S. 2453, the National Security Surveillance Act of 2006, and reported that it "cannot estimate the budgetary impact of implementing S. 2453 because we cannot predict how the volume or type of surveillance would change under this legislation. Moreover, information regarding surveillance technologies and their associated costs are classified. Any changes in federal spending for surveillance activities under the legislation would be subject to the appropriation of the necessary funds." http://www.cbo.gov/sites/default/files/cbofiles/ftpdocs/76xx/doc7625/s2353rev.pdf
