The Taxpayer's Perspective

A Publication by the National Taxpayers Union

With Election Day 2021 quickly approaching and early voting already commencing in some states, America is officially in the final stretch of this election season. Though “off-year” elections do not receive the same attention and media coverage as Congressional or Presidential contests, the issues facing voters on November 2nd are still extremely important. Some of the most pressing issues will occur through ballot initiatives, referendums, non-binding advisory questions, and constitutional amendments on statewide and local election slates. Taxpayers in twenty-five states should be aware they have the opportunity to decide on wide-ranging tax and fiscal ballot measures that could have serious implications for their state and community. In many ways, these types of elections are part of a “direct democracy” tradition that have the most significant impact on the pockets of our nation’s citizens.

For over a decade, National Taxpayers Union (NTU) has released its annual “Ballot Guide,” a comprehensive catalogue of ballot measures which will appear at the state and local levels. This educational resource offers taxpayers and concerned citizens the ability to review the various tax, budget, and regulatory measures that may appear on their ballot. We are proud to claim our 2021 Ballot Guide is the most comprehensive guide in our organization’s rich fifty-two year history. Importantly, our guide offers taxpayers an account of the specific taxation type, how the revenue will be used, how much the tax would raise annually, and for how long it would be in effect. NTU took great care in collecting and reviewing thousands of sample ballots in nearly every county - big or small, rural or urban, and anywhere in between, to provide our nation’s taxpayers accurate information on what could be on their ballot.

From our independent analysis, this Election Day will feature eight statewide ballot questions in four states and 1,723 local measures across hundreds of counties. By our calculations, these measures amount to approximately $3.2 billion in annual tax increases and would also permit the issuance of $37.49 billion in bonds. Of the nearly $3.2 billion in tax annual increases that are on the ballot, $1.51 billion is from sales tax increases, $1.43 billion is from property tax increases, $157.14 million is from marijuana taxes, $46.98 million is from miscellaneous tax increases, and $36.7 million is from income tax increases. Additionally, Colorado’s Proposition 120 would reduce taxes by approximately $1 billion.

Unfortunately, NTU was unable to acquire revenue estimates on 669 property, sales, income, marijuana, and short-term lodging tax measures from county fiscal estimates, thereby clouding the entirety of what taxpayers and voters can expect to vote on. Additionally, most of the bond measures would be issued at the local level and only a handful of localities have provided revenue estimates for how these bonds would impact property tax rates, which are not included in the previous “unknown” revenue estimate category. That means when many taxpayers go to fill in their ballots, they will be in the dark on the tax implications of their vote. The absence of critical data is extremely problematic and should be remedied by lawmakers in the future so their constituents can make better-informed decisions on Election Day 2022 and beyond.

Both the number of measures and total dollar amount of tax measures are down sharply compared to the 2020 election. Last year, we identified twenty-six state measures and 2,366 local measures, which would have increased taxes by $24.79 billion annually, driven largely by a handful of big tax increases. For bonds, we estimated at least $50.2 billion in new bonds for this election. These obligations have a significant impact on taxpayers well beyond 2020.

Additionally, there are three states that will be holding November elections on tax and fiscal ballot measures that are not taking place on November 2nd. Louisiana, Nebraska, and Oklahoma will be voting on more measures November 9th and are therefore not included in this Ballot Guide. However, they will be included in a separate supplemental Guide released the week before those elections.

Finally, although NTU’s team made every effort to identify measures and their fiscal impacts, it is impossible to ensure that every jurisdiction’s election slate is completely reported in our Guide. In some cases, election authorities either may have made late decisions concerning their ballots, do not always post their sample ballots online, or were responsive in providing this information and may not be included in this guide. Taxpayers are strongly encouraged to check with their local election authorities for additional material.

An overview of the statewide measures

At the state level, residents of Colorado are considering two significant tax questions. The first, Proposition 119, would increase the excise tax rate on the sale of marijuana by five percentage points by 2024 in order to provide out-of-school learning opportunities for students. This tax, according to the ballot text, would raise $137.6 million annually. The second measure voters will see is Proposition 120, which would reduce the residential property tax assessment rate from 7.15 to 6.5 percent and the non-residential property tax assessment rate from 29 to 26.4 percent. This tax cut, according to the ballot text, would lower annual tax collections by $1.03 billion, making it the largest tax cut measure on the ballot in 2021.

Across the country in Maine, voters will have the opportunity to approve yet another bond measure to fund transportation improvements. On the ballot is Question 2, which would permit $100 million in state bonds in order to finance various transportation infrastructure projects across Maine. The ballot text notes that up to $85 million would be used for highways and bridges, and up to $15 million would be used for rail, aviation, ports, and other means of transportation. Maine voters are particularly accustomed to bond ballot measures, according to Ballotpedia, “voters of Maine cast ballots on 41 bond issues, totaling $1.55 billion” between 2007 and 2020, approving 40 of those 41 measures.

Down in the Lone Star State, voters will see nine constitutional amendments, the most of any state in the country, but only two amendments pertain to taxes. Amendment 7 provides the surviving spouse of a disabled individual to maintain a homestead property tax limit if the spouse is 55 years of age or older at the time of the death and remains at the homestead. Amendment 8 would allow the legislature to provide a homestead property tax exemption for the surviving spouse of a military member killed or fatally injured in the line of duty.

In the Pacific Northwest, Washington State voters will see three advisory, non-binding measures that would not on their own alter any taxes.

An overview of the local measures

The overwhelming majority of this year’s tax increases occur at the local level, with some measures raising more eyebrows than others. Here are some of the more interesting tax measures that will be on the ballot:

- Two non-binding local measures in Minnesota that would: Recommend the adoption of misguided rent control laws (Henepin and Ramsey counties)
- Four individual measures in Colorado that would: Impose a new $7 per square foot tax on residential home construction (Douglas County); implement a local sales tax rate cap (Denver County); and two measures creating government-run internet utilities (Larimer and Mesa Counties)
- Four individual measures in California that would: Impose a new real estate transfer tax on high value properties (Los Angeles County); impose a new tax on industrial property (Los Angeles County); and increase taxes on utility ratepayers (Fresno and Imperial Counties)
- Three individual measures in Washington that would: Ban the imposition of a future income tax (Yakima County); a measure imposing strict new regulations on landlords; and a measure adversely impacting gig economy workers (Whatcom County)
- Three individual measures in Oregon that would: Impose a new tax on fuel (Lincoln County); and two measures that would impose a new tax on prepared food and beverages (Clatsop and Lincoln Counties)
- Two individual measures in Florida that would: allow a local property tax exemption for new businesses (Pinellas County); and a measure to permit a local utility to offer electronic communications services (Indian River County)
- Two individual measures in New Mexico that would: Raise local gross receipts tax rates (Lincoln and San Juan Counties)
- Two individual measures in Texas that would: Reduce local property tax rates (Victoria and Rusk Counties)
- One measure in Ohio that would: Create a massive new green energy initiative within the City of Columbus (Delaware County)

For a more detailed description of these measures, as well as individual summaries of the tax impact for each state, please view each state's individual Ballot Guide page. Additionally, since a sizable portion of these measures occur over more than one jurisdiction, every measure is listed once even though it may appear on multiple county ballots.

FLORIDA

- There are 3 measures across 3 counties
- Voters will decide on 1 measure to extend or increase taxes by $45.6 million annually
- Voters will decide on 1 measure to create a new local property tax exemption for businesses
- Voters will decide on 1 measure to expand internet utility services

LOCAL MEASURES

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY

City of Sebastian

Charter Amendment Question No. 1: Authorizes the addition of “electronic communication services” to the list of local public services and utilities the city is empowered to provide. Since telephone, radio and television stations, and cable systems were already included in this section of the charter but internet was not, this amendment seems to support the idea that the city would like its utility to also provide internet service to residents. Since many private companies can already provide these services, it would be duplicative for the government to compete with the private sector for customers.

MANATEE COUNTY

Manatee County School District

TAX INCREASE Millage Election: Continuation of an expiring property tax rate in order to fund student instruction, district employee salaries, and expand career and technical education and STEM programs.

Tax Impact: A tax hike of $45.6 million annually, by extending the 1 mill property tax rate.

Duration: 3 years

PINELLAS COUNTY

City of St. Petersburg

Referendum Question: Authorizes the city council to create a property tax exemption for new businesses that relocate to the city and expansions of existing businesses that create new, full-time jobs.

Tax Impact: While this measure would clearly help some businesses, it may force localities to shift a larger tax burden onto other businesses or homeowners to make up the lost revenue. Instead of narrowing the number of taxpayers, lawmakers should widen the tax base to ensure all businesses pay a lower property tax rate. This approach is much fairer than what is proposed.

GEORGIA

- There are 25 measures across 21 counties
- Voters will decide on 18 measures to extend or increase taxes by $1.2 billion annually
- Of those tax measures, 9 measures would increase sales taxes by $932.68 million annually
- Voters will decide on 11 measures to issue up to $901.29 million in bonds
- Of those bond measures, 9 measures would increase sales taxes by $269.68 million annually
- Voters will decide on 4 measures that would establish new local property tax exemptions
- Voters will decide on 1 measure that does not have a revenue estimate

LOCAL MEASURES

CLAYTON COUNTY

City of Morrow

TAX DECREASE Special Question: Authorizes an increase to the property tax exemption for homeowners.

Tax Impact: Increases the exemption to $80,000. While this may result in a tax decrease for some, it could also lead to higher tax rates for others since the city will need to somehow offset the loss of tax revenue.

Duration: Permanent

COBB COUNTY

TAX INCREASE Proposed Tax Levy: Continuation of an expiring Education Special Purpose Local Option Sales Tax that is used to fund services in the county School District.

WHATCOM COUNTY

City of Bellingham

Initiative 2021-01: This measure would impose burdensome new regulations on landlords, including smaller mom&pop owned rental units. Some of these new regulations include new renter protections, renter relocation assistance, and expanded tenant rights to include rental relocation assistance. In some instances, it also would require landlords to cap rent prices. These additional regulations would likely bring harmful economic effects, which will be felt by renters and landlords alike.

Initiative 2021-03: This measure would prohibit the use of city funds from being used to discourage unionization efforts. While city funds should not be used for, or against unionization efforts, this measure would likely result in forced unionization of some workers. Americans should be free to decide for themselves if they want to join a union or not.

Initiative 2021-04: This measure would impose new burdensome regulations on private employers that employ people in the gig economy. Specifically, this measure would require employers to provide workers an additional $4 per hour during periods of declared state of emergency, an estimated weekly schedule, and other new labor changes. Since most gig workers enjoy the flexibility of their work hours, this measure runs counter to what most workers actually want. If passed, it will likely harm gig economy workers, not help them.

City of Yakima

Proposition No. 3: This measure would amend the City charter to prohibit the city from ever imposing a tax on income, wages, salaries, and investments. With large spending increases on the agenda of many big government politicians, it will be increasingly difficult to hold the line on taxes. That's why inoculating taxpayers against future tax increases may be the responsible thing to do.

Since 1969, National Taxpayers Union (NTU), has been the "Voice of America's Taxpayers." The nation's oldest taxpayer advocacy organization, NTU fights for lower taxes, smaller budgets, and economic freedom at all levels of government. As taxpayers' lobbyists, we work to ensure that all Americans are able to pursue their dreams without the heavy hand of government holding them back.

NTU is a nonpartisan 501(c)(4) nonprofit, advocating on behalf of taxpayers, not political parties.
